Baby Shower Invitation Wording To Welcome The Wee One Into The World

WHEN IT'S TIME TO PAMPER MOM, DAD AND BABY, LET GUESTS KNOW ALL THE SPECIFICS WITH THE BEST BABY SHOWER INVITATION WORDING FOR EVERY KIND OF OCCASION.

Planning a baby shower? It all starts with the invites. But unlike other parties where you're just required to cover the basics (when, where, why and how to RSVP) baby shower invitation wording usually includes a bit of a boost about the sex of the baby, what mom and dad need and what kind of occasion the day will bring.

You might need baby shower invitation wording for a boy or baby sprinkle wording for growing families. If mom and dad would like limited items, that may mean bring-a-book instead of a card wording or diaper shower invitation wording.

Whatever kind of baby shower invitation wording you need, rest assured the list we've created is just like a diaper—that is, it's got you and baby covered.

Baby Shower Invitation Wording for a Boy

Break out all things blue, because a little guy is on the way! Help guests know exactly that with baby shower invitation wording for a boy. Pair up these mini-masculine openers with the essential shower facts for all you need to know on how to fill out a baby shower invitation.

Skip the snakes and snails and puppy dog tails! This little guy needs bottles, blankets and burp cloths!

Baby Shower Invitation Wording for a Girl

When it's time to bring a new little lady into the world, celebrate her arrival in the style she and mom deserve. Whether the party is pretty in pink, a sophisticated affair over high tea or a nautical take for a shower at sea, use these sweet openers for baby shower invitation wording for a girl.

Join us for a sugar, spice and everything nice baby shower. Because it's a girl!

Coed Baby Shower Invitation Wording

Who says showers are for ladies only? Parenting as a pair is double the fun, so it only makes sense to have both mom- and dad-to-be celebrating the big day together. And since they say it takes a village to raise a child, use the following coed baby shower invitation wording to ask all your friends to join in on the fun. After all, the more the merrier!

A baby's a brewing, so we're throwing a bash. And it wouldn't be a party without you there, so come raise a glass to our new addition!

Bring a Book Instead of a Card Wording

Greeting cards are nice, but mom, dad and baby are sure to get more use from books instead. Use bring-a-book instead of card wording on the baby shower invitation to let guests know they can skip the card aisle in exchange for a better cover-to-cover read.

Skip the card for a book instead, s we want baby to be well-read!

Please skip the card and instead help us fill our baby's shelves with all the friends she needs.

Help build baby's library by writing your well-wishes in a favorite children's book instead of a greeting card.

Baby Sprinkle Wording

Adding to a growing family usually means mom and dad don't need as many of the big baby items, such as strollers, play pens and tummy time toys. However, while big brother or sister may have plenty to share from their baby days, the new little one will still need diapers, wipes, gift cards and other non-reusable basics. That's when it's time to transition from baby shower wording to baby sprinkle wording. These openers are perfect to pair with a list of things mom and dad specifically need for their new addition.

With another sweet baby along on the way, we hope you will join us to brighten the day.

Two little hands and sweet little feet, another baby makes our family complete!

Gender Reveal Invitation Wording

Finding out if new baby-to-be is a boy or girl is a big moment for the proud parents-to-be. While some parents celebrate it with the doctor during an ultrasound or on the day of delivery, others want to make it more magical by making the announcement surrounded by family and friends. Whether it be slicing into a pink or blue cake, breaking into a colorful confetti-filled piñata or turning the fun into a gender guessing game, the following are lines you need for gender reveal invitation wording.

Twinkle, twinkle, little star. How we wonder what you are!

Diaper Shower Invitation Wording

There isn't a better way to say it: When baby's born, shit gets real. Literally. Thankfully there are diapers to keep baby covered. And with the little one wearing diapers for at least a year or two, any help the parents-to-be can get in the baby bottom department can help from blowing their monthly baby budget. That's where a diaper shower comes in handy. Perfect for a work baby shower or for parents having twins, try the following diaper shower invitation wording to let guests know the party is B.Y.O.D.
